It sounds strange but it is very true. All people are afraid of mosquitoes. The reason is that these mosquitoes are dangerous to people. One of the dangers is spreading diseases to people. They do this after biting the people. That is why people do all they can to make sure that they prevent mosquito bites. According to medical personnel, many ways can be employed to fight against mosquito bites. These may include; sleeping under treated mosquito nets, cutting tall bushes around homes and draining away stagnant water.

In case these mosquitoes bite a person, they spread different diseases among which is malaria. Other diseases spread by these deadly creatures are yellow fever and elephantiasis. As a result, people dread them. You may even think that these creatures were as big as a lion but not at all. They are just small insects. They are even smaller than cockroaches. These deadly creatures spend most of the day time hiding in dark corners. At night, they come out of their hiding places and try to get what to feed on.

They keep flying around seeking whom to bite. Unfortunately for them, people are in their mosquito nets sleeping peacefully. They just keep around making noise as though they were singing a lullaby for one to sleep. They wait for their opportunity when one comes out of the net to go for a short call. They sneak into the net and hide in the corner. When the person comes back and sleeps, they bite him. This person feels the bite and hunts the mosquitoes and kills them. All in all, people are afraid of these deadly creatures.
