                    MATATA AND THE WOLF
      Matata was a lovely cow. She went to graze with other cows in the valley. In the evening when they were coming back home, she got lost in the forest.
      A wolf saw her and started running towards her. She jumped and made a lot of noise. She then begged the wolf not to eat her but allow her to go and breast feed her one week old calf. She promised to return after feeding her calf. The wolf allowed her to go but it was not happy about it.

Matata went home, fed her calf and returned to the forest as she had promised. The wolf was shocked but happy to see the cow back. The wolf gladly let her free because it was honest. The cow thanked the wolf for letting her free. It went back home very happy.
